

INSIDE THIS ISSUE:

Men In Black 3	2
Dark Shadows	2
The Dictator	3
Now Is Good	3
Moonrise Kingdom	4
Jeff, Who Lives At Home	4
The Lucky One	5
What To Expect When You're Expecting	5
Summary of April	6
Coming in June	7
Release Dates	8

Also Out This Month

- Beauty and the Beast 3D - re-release of Disney's classic Oscar-winning animated film
- Safe - Jason Statham must protect a young girl from harm
- Silent House - Elizabeth Olsen stars in the one-shot horror remake
- All in Good Time - comedy centred around a British-Asian family
- How I Spent My Summer Vacation - Mel "Sugar-Tits" Gibson gets back into the action-comedy groove
- Piranha 3DD - more fun antics with deadly fish and curvaceous, slutty women - now with added Hasselhoff!
- The Raid: Redemption - Indonesian action film about an attempted SWAT raid on a criminal hideout

The written word in this publication was created entirely by the editor, Jack Martin.

All rights reserved.

© Jack Martin 2012

MOVIE OF THE MONTH: AMERICAN PIE: REUNION

It's been a good long while since we last saw the original poster boys for teen adolescence and sexual frustration.

But now, nine years since they last graced the silver screen with a wedding to remember (and since then a good handful of forgettable DTV spin-offs), the East Great Falls High graduates are back for yet another helping of pie in May's Movie of the Month, American Pie: Reunion.

It was decided that a much-needed trip down memory lane was in need for the series to get right back on track for the American Pie film series, and what better way to do that by organizing a high school reunion featuring all of your favourite characters?

The ones tasked with bringing everyone back together are writer-directors Jon Hurwitz and Hayden Schlossberg, the creators of the popular Harold and Kumar film series so you know that it's going to be a fun ride already.

But a reunion means the return of the original actors from the original series, so please welcome back Jason Biggs (Jersey Girl), Seann William Scott (The Dukes of Hazzard), Chris Klein (We Were Soldiers), Thomas Ian Nicholas (The Rules of Attraction), Eddie Kaye Thomas (Nick and Norah's Infinite Playlist), Chris Owen (The Mist) and John Cho (Harold and Kumar) as Jim, Stifler, Oz, Kevin, Finch, Chuck "The Sherminator" Sherman and "M.I.L.F Party Guy #1" respectively, whilst on the girls' side we have

Some familiar faces (and familiar situations) return for a fourth slice of "warm apple pie" in American Pie: Reunion

Alyson Hannigan (How I Met Your Mother), Tara Reid (Van Wilder: Party Liason), Mena Suvari (American Beauty), Shannon Elizabeth (Love Actually) and Natasha Lyonne (Blade: Trinity) back as Michelle, Vicky, Heather, Czech foreign exchange student Nadia and Jessica respectively.

But it would not truly be an American Pie film without Jennifer Coolidge and Eugene Levy back as the legendary Stifler's Mom and the hilarious Jim's Dad, which they most certainly are.

Taking place ten years after the gang graduated from East Great Falls High after their quest to pop their cherries before prom, the lives of the gang have changed dramatically: the sex life of married couple Jim and Michelle (Biggs and Hannigan) has gone severely downhill since the birth of their son; Stifler (Scott) is working at a dead-end job;

Kevin (Nicholas) is married and working at home; Oz (Klein) is a successful sportscaster with a hot young girlfriend; and Finch (Thomas) remains as mysterious as ever.

But when the call comes in for a high school reunion, the gang are brought back together to relive the good times, meet some old friends, get reacquainted with their past objects of desire and, of course, get into some gross-out but hilarious hijinks and situations.

The time feels just right for a reunion with the right people, and if you grew up watching the adventures of the original American Pie group then this should definitely put your worst fears to rest. American Pie: Reunion comes out in British cinemas on May 4th (must... resist... Star Wars jokes).

Just watch out for that warm apple pie...

News Round-Up

- Ashton Kutcher will play late Apple founder Steve Jobs in indie film Jobs
- Dumb and Dumber 2 will begin production later this year, with Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels returning
- A follow-up to The Woman in Black, subtitled Angel of Death, is greenlit
- A reboot of The Mummy is in the works
- Taylor Lautner joins Adam Sandler sequel Grown Ups 2
- Captain America 2 will be released in April 2014
- The sequel to X-Men: First Class will shoot in January
- A future sequel to Snow White and the Huntsman may focus on Chris Hemsworth's Huntsman
- Tim Burton plans stop-motion monster movie Night of the Living
- Ben Kingsley, Guy Pearce, Jessica Chastain and Andy Lau join Iron Man 3, which will be co-produced in China
- Tom Hanks and Emma Thompson will play Walt Disney and Mary Poppins author P.L. Travers in Saving Mr. Banks
- Spider-Man's new origin story will span multiple films, according to new director Marc Webb
- Brad Pitt, Penelope Cruz and Javier Bardem are rumoured for Ridley Scott's The Counsellor
- Hunger Games director Gary Ross drops out of sequel Catching Fire; Francis Lawrence (I Am Legend) is to replace him
- Sabrina The Teenage Witch will be reimagined as a superhero in a new movie
- Sharlto Copley is eyed for the villain role in Spike Lee's Old Boy
- Sin City: A Dame To Kill For is officially green-lit, and will shoot this summer
- Darren Aronofsky's Noah, starring Russell Crowe, will arrive early 2014

BLACK TO THE FUTURE: MEN IN BLACK 3

Having been absent from the screen since Seven Pounds four years ago, Hollywood superstar Will Smith is back in perhaps his most famous role as Agent J in sci-fi-comedy sequel Men in Black 3.

Tommy Lee Jones (No Country For Old Men) is also back as the straight man in the unlikely duo, who are part of the Men in Black, a top secret organization to prevent the existence of alien life from being known in public.

But this being a movie (the first in ten years since Men in Black 2), not all is as it seems. Director Barry Sonnenfeld is also back for his third film in the series, but there are a lot of new actors joining Jones and Smith for the first time, including Josh Brolin (Jones' co-star in No Country For Old Men), Emma Thompson (Nanny McPhee), Alice Eve (Starter For 10), Jermaine Clement (Flight of the Conchords), singer Nicole Scherzinger (of Pussycat Dolls and Bill Hader (Paul), with the likes of Adam West (Batman) and Lady Gaga said to be in cameo roles (who wouldn't be surprised if Gaga turned out to be an alien?) The plot takes place some time after the last film, with Agent J (Smith) travelling back in time to 1969 to stop an alien criminal named Boris (Clement) from assassinating Agent K (Jones) and changing the history of the world. Forced to team up with a younger version of Agent K (Brolin), they set out to stop the alien as Agent J also faces the 24-hour time limit before risking being trapped in 1969 forever. Sounds intriguing stuff, but it will be a great pleasure to see Will Smith back on the big screen once again in Men in Black 3, out in cinemas on May 25th.

Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones "neuralyze" the competition in Men in Black 3

All together now: "Here come the Men in Black..."

FANGS FOR THE MEMORIES: DARK SHADOWS

Forget Brad and Angelina, don't think about the Beckhams, for the biggest powerhouse couple in the world is that of Johnny Depp and Tim Burton.

Having delighted the world over with such collaborations as Edward Scissorhands, Sweeney Todd, Alice in Wonderland etc, they're now back together to bring to the screen the supernatural soap opera known only as Dark Shadows.

With a stonking 1225 episodes to its name, the original series has become something of a camp cult classic - perfect material for Burton and Depp to adapt for their very own, as they have both claimed to have been massive fans of the original.

Of course, as you may have guessed already, Burton is directing and Depp is starring, but joining the latter on screen for the show are Eva Green (Casino Royale), Michelle Pfeiffer (The Fabulous Baker Boys), and also appeared in Burton's Batman Returns as Catwoman), Jonny Lee Miller (Trainspotting), Chloe Moretz (Hugo), Gulliver McGrath (soon to be seen in Spielberg's Lincoln),

Johnny Depp plays 18th century bloodsucker Barnabas Collins in Dark Shadows

Helena Bonham Carter (The King's Speech and virtually every other Burton film), Jackie Earle Haley (Watchmen), Beth Heathcote (In Time), Christopher Lee (Lord of the Rings) and KISS frontman Alice Cooper.

Johnny Depp plays Barnabas Collins, who in the 1700s grows up to be a wealthy playboy and master of Collinwood Manor. However, he one day unwillingly breaks the heart of a witch named Angelique (Green), who turns him into a vampire and buries him alive. 200 years later, in 1972, Barnabas is freed from his coffin accidentally and returns to find Collinwood Manor in ruins, and occupied by his quirky, dysfunctional descendants who all have dark and terrifying secrets of their own.

Dark Shadows haunts cinemas from May 11th, and who knows? It may just be THE film that makes vampires cool again, and not by having them friggin' sparkle in the sunlight...

FREEDOM ISN'T FREE: THE DICTATOR

In October of last year, the ruthless Libyan dictator Colonel Gaddafi was killed by rebel forces after years of tyrannous rule and hardship. Such momentous times make it appropriate for Sacha Baron Cohen to bring out his latest comedy The Dictator.

The British comedian, perhaps most famous for his fictional alter-egos Ali G, Borat and Bruno as well as appearing in other films like Hugo and the Madagascar series, has created a brand-new fictional character for these modern times.

However, unlike the mockumentary style taken with Borat and Bruno, The Dictator is very much a scripted film with other actors taking part alongside Mr. Cohen.

Frequent collaborator Larry Charles (director of Borat and Bruno) directs, and said

Sacha Baron Cohen plays a ruthless dictator of the Republic of Wadiya in The Dictator actors include Anna Faris (Scary Movie), John C. Reilly (Step Brothers), Megan Fox (Transformers), Ben Kingsley (Hugo) and Bobby Lee (Pineapple Express).

Supposedly inspired by Saddam Hussein's book Zabibah and the King, the film centers itself around Admiral General Aladeen (Cohen), dictator of the fictional Republic of Wadiya and tells of the tale of how said dictator "risked his life to ensure that democracy would never come to the country he so lovingly oppressed".

To see what antics this new character from the mind of Sacha Baron Cohen gets up to, The Dictator comes out on May 18th.

THE DYING GAME: NOW IS GOOD

She's been in showbiz for over ten years now, having worked with the likes of Tom Cruise, Denzel Washington and Sean Penn in the process.

But now, young actress Dakota Fanning makes her debut in British cinema with what has to be her most challenging role yet as a cancer sufferer in Now Is Good.

Fanning, who is also known to many Twi-hards (you have no idea how much I cringed at typing that) as sadistic vampire Jane, has adopted a flawless English accent for her character who goes on a heartbreaking journey of acceptance and, of course, love.

The film is directed by Ol Parker (Imagine Me and You), who most recently wrote the screenplay for Brit

Dakota Fanning finds love as she dies in Now Is Good hit The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel, and Fanning is joined in the cast by Jeremy Irvine (War Horse), Paddy Considine (Hot Fuzz), Kaya Scodelario (Wuthering Heights) and Olivia Williams (Wild Bill).

Based on the book Before I Die by Jenny Downham, Now Is Good tells the story of Tessa Scott (Fanning), a seventeen-year-old girl who is dying from leukemia. Abandoning treatments, she compiles a list of things to do before she dies such as lose her virginity, take drugs and fall in love - however, she doesn't expect the latter to happen with her next-door neighbor Adam (Irvine).

Now is a good time to check it out from May 25th.

News Round-Up

- Emily Blunt joins Tom Cruise in All You Need Is Kill
- Disney will create a film based on the theme park ride Mr. Toad's Wild Ride
- James Cameron still plans to direct Battle Angel after the Avatar sequels
- Martin Scorsese and Leonardo DiCaprio will reteam once more for The Wolf of Wall Street
- The Dark Knight Rises will feature more than one hour of IMAX footage, breaking records for a Hollywood film
- Sean Penn eyes a role in Ben Stiller's The Secret Life of Walter Mitty
- Fast and Furious 6 is seeking out Haywire star Gina Carano for a role
- Mel Gibson joins Robert Rodriguez's sequel Machete Kills
- Alex Kurtzman and Robert Orci will write the second draft for The Amazing Spider-Man 2
- The Muppets 2 is officially a go, with James Bobin and Nicholas Stoller returning as director and writer
- Paramount is moving forward with a sequel to Top Gun
- James Bond will return for his 24th mission in 2014
- Christina Ricci and Brendan Gleeson joins the cast of The Smurfs 2
- The follow-up to Rise of the Planet of the Apes could start filming this year
- Adam McKay will direct a remake of Uptown Saturday Night, with Will Smith and Denzel Washington being eyed to star
- Harry Potter writer Steve Kloves will write and direct a new version of The Jungle Book
- Julianne Moore may take the mother role in the Carrie re-adaptation
- Sam Raimi will produce a remake of Poltergeist

KINGDOM COME: MOONRISE KINGDOM

Acclaimed visionary director Wes Anderson (The Royal Tenenbaums, Rushmore) makes his return to live-action filmmaking, after a brief foray into animation with the Oscar-nominated Fantastic Mr. Fox, with the brand-new comedy-drama Moonrise Kingdom. This film adds a little bit of nostalgia into the mix, setting it around the culture of the 1960s, while also managing to incorporate a cute theme of young love.

But this is still very much a Wes Anderson movie, and if you've seen any of his work before (and you really should, they're subtle works of arts), then you'll know exactly what you're in for. You also know it's a Wes Anderson movie because it has an outstanding cast ensemble lined up for this movie. The players for this movie include Bruce Willis (Die Hard), Edward Norton (Fight Club), Bill Murray (Lost in Translation), Frances

A young girl runs away with her young lover in Wes Anderson's newest film Moonrise Kingdom!

McDormand (Fargo), Tilda Swinton (We Need To Talk About Kevin), Jason Schwartzman (Scott Pilgrim vs. The World), Harvey Keitel (Reservoir Dogs), and debuting young actors Jared Gilman and Kara Hayward. Set on an island of the New England coast in the glorious year of 1965, twelve-year-olds Sam and Suzy (Gilman and Hayward) fall in love and run away together into the wilderness. Meanwhile, a search party led by a local sheriff (Willis), Sam's scoutmaster (Norton) and Suzy's parents (Murray and McDormand) is formed but as a violent storm brews offshore, the peaceful island community is turned upside down in more ways than one. Entrance to the Moonrise Kingdom will be granted from May 25th.

THE BIGGEST LOSER: JEFF, WHO LIVES AT HOME

The Duplass Brothers, who last graced our screens with the outrageous dark comedy Cyrus (and again, I must stress that it has bugged all to do with THAT Cyrus), return once again for the comedy-drama with both brotherly and motherly love entitled Jeff, Who Lives At Home.

However, Jay and Mark Duplass' fourth film as directors, writers and producers is more drama than comedy, giving them the chance to really flex their abilities to show dramatic muscle in their work. The same can be said for the actors that they've lined up to take part in the movie, mainly Jason Segal (The Muppets), Ed Helms (The Hangover), Judy Greer (The Descendants) and Susan Sarandon (Thelma and Louise), the former three being known mostly for their more comedic roles than dramatic ones. Hopefully, this film will give them all a chance to shine. It may be so, as the plot sounds pretty inspirational: the Jeff of the title (Segal) is a 30 year old slacker who lives in his mother's (Sarandon) basement, meanwhile his better-off brother Pat (Helms) is struggling with a failed marriage. Fate puts them together when Jeff goes out on a simple errand for his mother, and the two brothers are united for a day to track Pat's possibly adulterous wife (Greer). You'll want to get out of home to see this delightful film, out on May 11th.

Jason Segal and Ed Helms set out to put their miserable lives in order in Jeff, Who Lives At Home

JUST MY LUCK: THE LUCKY ONE

Even though it's the likes of Robert Pattinson and Taylor Lautner dominating the obsessive nature of teenage girls everywhere, ex-High School Musical star Zac Efron continues to make a name for himself as, unlike at least Lautner, an actual actor. With some successes coming in the form of Charlie St. Cloud, Me and Orson Welles and the recent animated US smash hit Dr. Seuss' The Lorax (more on that in July's issue), he's looking to express himself in more ways than one in The Lucky One. But if Efron himself isn't enough to get the squealing fangirls' bums on seats, perhaps this will: it's based on a book written by Nicholas Sparks, the same guy who wrote the source material for other lovey-dovey romances such as Dear John and, perhaps most notoriously, The Notebook. Mind you, that last one had Ryan Gosling in it, and since he was in Drive that

Zac Efron meets the woman in the photograph which saved his life in romance The Lucky One one gets a free pass. Anyway, Efron is directed in The Lucky One by Scott Hicks (Shine), and also gets to share the screen with fellow actresses Taylor Schilling (soon to be seen in director Ben Affleck's Argo) and Blythe Danner (Meet The Parents). Efron is Logan, a US Marine serving in Iraq on a tour of duty. One day, he finds a photograph of a woman named Beth (Schilling), and subsequently survives a surprise attack. When he is discharged, he travels to North Carolina to find her and takes up a job at her family-run local kennel. A budding romance eventually builds between the two (doesn't it always?), but certain complications soon arise. The Lucky One makes it to cinemas on May 4th (must... still... resist... Star Wars jokes...)

MOTHER NATURE: WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN YOU'RE EXPECTING

If you've ever been a parent, and thus have gone through the agonizing nine months of pregnancy, then you are fully entitled to enjoy the latest piece of art from Hollywood, based on the best-selling guide book What To Expect When You're Expecting. Though it is of course impossible to form a coherent storyline out of a book that best serves as a guide to help you get through that system of your life, director Kirk Jones (Nanny McPhee) has managed to form an ensemble cast of women and men to show it on screen. Think Love Actually, but in labour. Part of this ensemble are such actors and actresses as Jennifer Lopez (Maid in Manhattan), Cameron Diaz (Charlie's Angels), Elizabeth Banks (The Hunger Games), Anna Kendrick (Up In The

Cameron Diaz leads an ensemble of pregnant bellies in What To Expect When You're Expecting

Air), Brooklyn Decker (Battleship), Matthew Morrison (Glee), Rodrigo Santoro (300), Dennis Quaid (The Day After Tomorrow), Chris Rock (Madagascar) and Chace Crawford (Gossip Girl). Also, be on the lookout for a cameo from none other than ex-X-Factor judge Cheryl Cole as - what else - a talent show judge. Quite simply, the film looks at the lives of five different couples who suffer the many joys of the childbirth process with hilarious results. Expect What To Expect When You're Expecting to live up to expectations (whew!) on May 25th.

War Horse

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 07/05/12

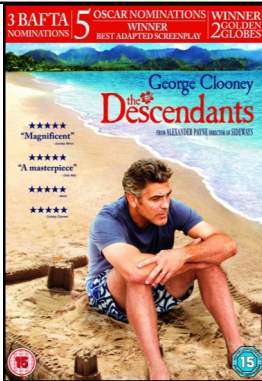

Sherlock Holmes: A Game of Shadows

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 14/05/12

Shame

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 14/05/12

The Descendants

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 21/05/12

STILL SHOWING: WHAT HAPPENED IN APRIL?

Not even the rubbish weather could cast a cloud over the bright releases of April 2012 (drought? Bah!). Let's take a look at some of the biggest...

The month began with a very Good Friday indeed on the 6th, with the Oscar-nominated French animation A Cat in Paris; Henry Cavill teamed with Bruce Willis to find the former's family in The Cold Light of Day; the Norwegian thriller Headhunters became somewhat of a cult hit; Julia Roberts hammed it up in the first of 2012's Snow White adaptations Mirror Mirror; Sean Penn was a rockstar who went to search for his father's Nazi torturer in This Must Be The Place; and to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the sinking of the R.M.S Titanic came a 3D re-release of James Cameron's Titanic.

It most certainly wasn't an unlucky Friday the 13th this time round, as the biggest release of that weekend had to be Peter Berg's attempt to capitalize on the success of the Transformers films with his version of the boardgame Battleship. And if that weren't enough, Joss Whedon collaborated with Cloverfield writer Drew Goddard to give us an original take on the horror genre in The Cabin in the Woods; and Michael Sheen adapted his acclaimed Passion play to the big screen in Gospel of Us. The 20th soon came round with the releases of films like bizarre gothic-horror Elfie Hopkins, which united Winstones Ray and Jaime for the first time on-screen (on closer inspection of the last issue, I probably should have made a bad Winstones/Flintstones pun in the article headline but no use crying over spilt milk); Amanda Seyfried tried to find her kidnapped sister in Gone; Guy Pearce tried to rescue the President's daughter from a prison... in space (sorry, I can't get over how B-movie-silly this premise is!) in Lockout; and Ewan McGregor's hapless scientist bonded with Emily Blunt for their passion over the strange motive of bringing Salmon Fishing in the Yemen. Finally, the month closed out with one of the biggest films that this year has to offer - the likes of Iron Man, Hulk, Captain America and Thor combined to defeat evil in The Avengers (yes, I'm STILL calling it that!). Meanwhile, other not-as-big releases included cross-dressing drama Albert Nobbs; and racehorse drama Outside Bet (obviously not all the films released on that date, but since none of them could outshine The Avengers, what's the point of even listing them?). Farewell April, with all of your crappy weather forecasts and Easter eggs. See you next year for even more of the same!

COMING SOON: WHAT'S HAPPENING IN JUNE?

Contrary to popular belief, the summer really starts in June as opposed to May or the end of April. But in film-terms, June marks the mid-point of the summer movie season, and for 2012 it has some very special films in store for us lucky people.

The 1st of the month is a Friday, and on this date we have some very exciting films out: Miley Cyrus makes the transition from Disney star to fully-fledged teen actress in LOL; Ridley Scott returns to the sci-fi genre that he helped to define with 1979's Alien, in the prequel/not-prequel to that film called Prometheus; and we get the second of 2012's Snow White adaptations, the cooler-looking Snow White and the Huntsman.

The good times keep on coming at us on the 8th, as Simon Pegg attempts to conquer his paranoias in A Fantastic Fear of Everything; a chilling ghost story is to be told (and Daniel Radcliffe is nowhere to be seen) in The Innkeepers; and an entirely-African-American fighting force takes to the skies in the WW2 epic Red Tails. Next up on the 15th, writer-director-actor Noel Clarke brings out his next film, centred around two competing

A brand-new world, as well as a huge threat to mankind, will be uncovered in Ridley Scott's newest sci-fi Prometheus female marathon runners (cleverly released just before some big sporting event in July...) called Fast Girls; and Tom Cruise may have climbed mountains and insanely tall buildings but now he faces his true challenge - singing as a rockstar - in the ensemble musical-comedy Rock of Ages. The 22nd of the month fast approaches, with the big releases that weekend include Jason Segal and Emily Blunt's marriage plans being constantly delayed in the new comedy The Five-Year Engagement; paranormal things go down in starry psychological thriller (Sigourney Weaver, Cillian Murphy, Elizabeth Olsen and Robert De Niro all pop up) and Sundance hit Red Lights; and four couples try and turn the tables on their relationships in surprise American box office hit Think Like A Man. Finally, the month comes to a close on the 29th. The big ones out on this date are ensemble comedy (and unofficial Bridesmaids reunion - see the cast for further details) Friends With Kids; Queen Latifah leads a choir to stardom in musical Joyful Noise; and Noel Clarke - him again - stars in and co-writes a film about a group of people trapped in a government warehouse amidst an alien invasion in Storage 24. So, that's all there is for June 2012. It may not look like much at first, but it will do for now. Or at least until The Dark Knight Rises in July. Then they're screwed...

Like Crazy

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 28/05/12

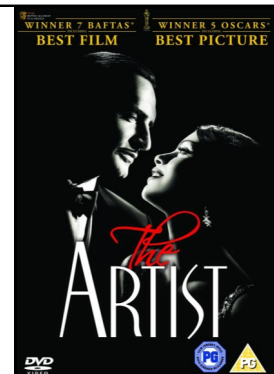

Chronicle

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 28/05/12

Martha Marcy May Marlene

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 28/05/12

The Artist

- Also available on Blu-Ray
- Released: 28/05/12

UK Film Release Dates

MAY

4TH (May The 4th Be With You...)

DAMMIT!

- American Pie: Reunion
- Angel and Tony
- Beauty and the Beast 3D
- Goodbye First Love
- Juan of the Dead
- Monsieur Lazhar
- The Lucky One
- Safe
- Silent House

11TH

- All in Good Time
- Beloved
- Café de Flore
- Dark Shadows
- How I Spent My Summer Vacation
- Jeff, Who Lives At Home
- Piranha 3DD
- [REC] Genesis

18TH

- 2 Days in New York
- The Dictator
- The Raid: Redemption

25TH

- Men In Black 3
- Moonrise Kingdom
- Now Is Good
- What To Expect When You're Expecting

JUNE

1ST

- The Angels' Share
- LOL
- Prometheus
- Snow White and the Huntsman

8TH

- A Fantastic Fear of Everything
- If I Were You
- The Innkeepers
- Red Tails

15TH

- Fast Girls
- Rock of Ages
- A Royal Affair
- A Thousand Kisses Deep

22ND

- The Five-Year Engagement
- Red Lights
- Think Like A Man
- Where Do We Go Now?

29TH

- Friends With Kids
- Joyful Noise
- Storage 24

All release dates are correct as of time of press.

JULY

6TH

- The Amazing Spider-Man
- Bol Bachchan
- Days of Grace
- Strawberry Fields

13TH

- Chariots of Fire
- Ice Age: Continental Drift
- Magic Mike
- Nostalgia for the Light

20TH

- The Dark Knight Rises
- In Your Hands

27TH

- Dr. Seuss' The Lorax
- El Bulli

Next Issue: June 2012